BALTIMORE'S CRIMSON & CLOVER FLORAL DESIGN RECEIVES HIGH PRAISE

Accolades from National & Local Press including Baltimore's 'Best Flower Shop'

Baltimore, MD -- Crimson & Clover Floral Design's usually deep aqua colored walls are blushing these days with high marks from both national and local publications. The floral design shop, which moved to Deepdene Road in Roland Park a year ago this past June has received an Editor's Choice Award from Brides Maryland magazine and captured Baltimore's Best Flower Shop from Baltimore Magazine as announced in the August 2011 edition.

"I am thrilled to receive such great recognition," says Amy Epstein, owner and floral designer at Crimson & Clover. "Our team works very hard to not only create consistently original and artistic floral designs, we pride ourselves on customer service at every level." In its Best of Baltimore (August 2011) issue on stands now, Baltimore magazine says of Crimson & Clover "Epstein's crew can whip together a bouquet or arrangement that will fit any personality or budget. We especially love her Friday afternoon half-price floral happy hour. What a great concept!"

The Fall/Winter edition of Brides Maryland recognizes home-town wedding vendors and during the first annual Editor's Choice Awards, Crimson & Clover Floral Design won the attention of editors. The award is dedicated to officially recognizing forward-thinking, trend-setting wedding vendors who inspire and delight. Look for our Editor's Choice window seal to mark the occasion!

"Our editors have revealed that go-to sources for the best in the business: the places and people who are helping to make wedding planning easier and more fun. They provide terrific products, exemplary customer service and the innovative ideas that continue to inspire us," stated Julie Raimondi, Editor-in-Chief Brides.com and Brides Local Magazines. "Cheers to Crimson & Clover for raising the bar."

The 16 Brides Local Magazines are published by Conde Nast, a division of Advance Publications, which operates in 25 countries and is home to some of the world's most celebrated media brands. The editorial staff of Brides Local Magazines provides easy access to the ideas and answers couples are looking for, and the vendors they need to hire.

Crimson & Clover is located in a 1522 square foot customized space at 733 Deepdene Road in Roland Park. The shop includes a separate meeting room for brides and special event planners, an open design center, and a large walk-in refrigerated 'flower market' where flower lovers will be able to choose individual stems or have a designer create a custom made bouquet on the spot. Crimson & Clover has become a gift retail destination as well, featuring high-end scented candles, lotions, vases and specialty gifts as well as a candy bar.
